FAQ - Real Life Personal Finance (RLPF) - Independent Study

- Why should you purchase RLPF?

There is free personal finance info on the internet. Why not just Google what you want to know?

The main reason is that people only know what they know and therefore research only what they think they don't know - budgets, debt, credit cards, student loans.

Assuming you are smart and have an inquiring mind, what you should also want to know is how to achieve your goals. For example, how do you identify the careers that will challenge your thinking and provide the financial resources for you to become financially independent? RLPF will answer these questions.

There are five additional reasons for selecting RLPF:

- 1) The course is written by award-winning financial professionals with decades of experience in addressing real-life financial problems. The course is about making real-life decisions.
- 2) RLPF is a blended online, one-semester social studies course, accessible for students who are hearing and visually impaired. The course is challenging with real-life examples that demand thinking and a deep understanding of finance, career choices, postsecondary education planning. Additionally, you are challenged to not memorize answers but to critically think, problem-solve, and communicate with family and friends about what you are learning. Note: If you are a Texas high school student, you may be able to receive a ½ social studies credit for course PEIMS 03380082. Contact your counselor or high school principal.
- 3) As you start to apply what you are learning, you will realize the power of the knowledge you have when you observe what actions your friends are taking.
- 4) RLPF is updated annually, so when you renew the course at 50% of the initial license, your data remains relevant and motivational.
- 5) The learning management system (LMS) is Canvas, rated by PC Magazine as the best educational LMS on the market today.

- How do I order RLPF?

Begin by reviewing pricing information and then contact Ken Decker, the publisher. Discuss your licensing needs and you will receive an invoice. Once payment is received with your email the license is emailed to you.
